The tobacco storks of Mary

We drift hands to move the smoke, it rises even now, for the last time. This succession to reach this point, or place, linger with regret, to never accomplish the various never set goals. Delivered into the home by nomadic light colonies, painting and then to print a process for scanning light and the path we follow, when we speak of now. I start to speak and break into a laugh trying to pretend there was no intent, but everyone knows, they've been there. They are here now so we talk of legs falling into holes on the edge of dreams. We drank through the mouth, received the water by distillation, drinking to replenish the body, and drinking to share that state. A variable state of time shared by using heartbeats as the standard, to average all those present to attempt to explain passage, We broke eggs in protest, on the carpet on the heads of others, into the blender and down the throat. Partoke to taken and excrete, will not waste can not waste will not consider or even mention, the politics of this train of digressed. Examine the dirt as a new form of silver, find qualities of the eminent jealousy of soil, Constructing theories of silvers lust of earthen properties and its involvement even in that soil, to interpolate data between ground and eyes, stream data like pulsar projected thoughts from our past, we find the science to explain the loss, of math in adding what is to the unknown. We fall short of breath, it makes such sense you know, such sense, certain oral revelations, afternoon. Fate followed every move.

He sat with his frown, fixed firm. half read, he studied the art. As if he could ever become a part. Broken never started his eyes fell to the ground.
This world felt like chocolate, so he stopped writing and began to live.

The babys dandruff, was insane
Young parents washed all day
Scrubbed that little head with industrial solvents
They used vaccum cleaners to collect it
They shaved his hair and applied vaseline
An old indian was called in to scalp him
Dad painted his noggin with tree tar
A neighbor kicked his mother in the teeth
A medical doctor performed a skin graft
Five astronauts said a prayer in heaven
The surgeon general sacrificed a goat
Then without warning, his brain disappeared brought on by our awe of prophecy, in error because of design, it can never, it can never explain the ultimate comedy of forest mice, the unparalleled absurdity of aboreal rodents scampering up trees, the brave advance and sexual territories explicit. And of others perceiving this uprising of mice, of what to compare a rampage up trees, into that higher ground, what of it what then? Liquids fail to excite, hydrogen and all that, willow tree. a bird call scared silly of ghost in the house of elders, behind empty rooms left vacant by death and filled with things of the day, now old and spookfilled, once consumer like driven demand for children sweet from parents and grandparents to buy these trinkets, give property of to young on the porches of bitter invalids, rooms filled with dust covered dolls which voodoo dead patents as they fade under progress of electrical wiring and diagramers of such wiring, the house hilled by streams behind and drinking water forced from below, tasting of ground sweet contaminants, but inhabited by a lot that couldn't care of such poisons for the world had already taken such toll, they sit electronically frightened by the fruits of their own labor, certain persistance of memory. You find yourself lighting tobacco in the love of Mary, so many to make it real, those of belief those to belive in doubt, as you give up on benzene as another humorless chemical, you make sweet tooth in rapture, to recapture, and manufacture another lie, babble eternal, to exit like cartoons.

Polaroids, their backs peeled by the curious children. In the blue room, decor by Geround. Sit antiseptic flavor. Casual remarks a century ago. Photographic evidence of aerogel conspiracy murder, silicon valley under investigation. Wonderspunky Willomaker taps crystals against his inflatable shoes. In remembrance from his chamber, real to the mind, illogical to the sense of touch, Willomaker, vessel #147 relived the trail as papa Smurf, a childhood fave. Partly then the others wrote books, and fish cleaning, also one performing dolphin marraiges on the coast of New Jersey, Bio-willomaker rode a superstring into knotty knots or some thing. deadpan sally rode the wave, instant access oatmeal, history of rice studies, magic as a fashion, random numbers falling into order, parrots in control of earth orbit. and so we all loved the smell of lemon pledge. The trembling hands of the night before, gift wrapped and sullen, for refusal. Abrupt insight into the linear, nature like a ball on a string, we swing it around, expecting the same results. Willomaker finds himself in a leather chair, young with a carrot smashed to bits and drooled down his cheek. A television glows in the wall, Driving cars through the cracks of the carpet, and later to smoke crack in a car and talk of the absurdity of carpet. He seems to be choking. Choking on the desire to remember, holds his breath until, blackout. The smallest part of the fashion rug, on the floor, below young Wonderspunky, there is a violation, a change in gravitational forces, music from the popular parlor game, Space Invaders, resonates from the light bulbs, A tinny sound yet quite audible, fascinating. This violation, cancelled all checks, broke eight thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight digital watches, and practically ruined every piece of velcro on the planet Earth. There were some very ugly people. Five ticks later everything that was de-res'd.

It is a gas

Noise in the evening left deserted strangers pondering a plastic blue straw, like a poison arrow in disguise, and then the old blood pump in the yard, bringing down...the dust, and our spirits. It is bad for the running, so get the boys down under. Several minds drift from the dance, and lock those hatches. They sing show tunes, merrily. Their bodies dressed in silk, They admire fat prophets in times of crisis. fishermen bring in angels, half of which are women, Some of which are female, and half still are not on the menu. Long, long, long, gone. extinguished hope, and only you can prevent forest fires, a sinking ship available in blood red, and infinite black for the power of flower, and carbon based notes, such reference. the facts were, death was happy in the house of love, a fantasy beyond fresh batteries rang our mechanical bells, fever, the furor with rosemary, dervish eels. to listen and interpret vibrations, like a mad spider, stalking a plastic playskool father, biting and poisoning till depressing failure, invites the moon and the setting of clocks. We ate coffee grinds, to become the balloon of fear, and distinguish ourselves. But drastic paranoia is resource depleting seduction, a call for my seventy roger lighters. No sense at all. Like fish paste inside mylar, inflated, with devalued gasses, for inhalation, creating the new stranger, a global religion plus air freshener. no more abstract, certain with apple for administrators, a yellow star stole my ample, those ample admissions of peeping in at small bugs, or spy watching. The selling of secret habits for publication, of which students trade labor...still in the morning coolness, the color kelvins radiate my face, like lipstick camera, drunk as the pernod afternoon. In the Sony monitor we laugh about time, they will depress you, as they judge, the myths gain collective weight, so we wage absurdity, which limits the abilities, out of touch, out of mind, the children sing. Or spend ten for a buffet palate of military socio weapons psycho hysterical aberations for rationing the propaganda panda and his cartoon kalvacade. we say dementia, and give blood to decrease the tolerances. radial clock of tele-vision

Bob was old hat, and fine feathered his peers would say, so his venture into television was both expected and other things. He had studied the art with admiral dedication, twelve hours a day, most every day for decades. He saw channels come and go, and oh the things that he had seen on those channels. Things like bears eating fish out of plastic bags, psychics selling hair products, and too many laughs to mention, lots. He set the set on the roof, sat next to the box and thought so hard he could just see it, like a crack view of paris from the lonliest street in America, Bob knew today would see tele-vision fully realized, and he would be there, the central character. Now for a script. He looked in all the usual places, like coffee shops, and all night wicker stores. He knew it would change all of this, no religion like Lennon, somewhere in his mind he could already see the action, partial vision somewhat like i dream of jeannie, a dash of the ole leave it to beaver, and about every nature show ever braodcast. Then apparently they got wind of it like the last time and the last, so he kicked off the set and watched it tremble down the roof, over the edge and into the drive, The forces against were shocked at gravitys swift action thought Bob, there was no time to react, just that sullen guilt, that evil forces feel when tele's fall off the roof. Bob lifted his shirt for a little finger action celebrating victory. Some bugs flew into the broken television, and later that day a bird landed on its cracked edge, Bob watched for a long time, then he watched tomorrow, A family of miniture squirrels moved into the set, And Bob noticed moma squirrel hiss at the snaked from under the garage, she had to protect her babies, Bob laughed at the face of the snake, it said, "Uh ohh!, its those hissing squirrels." Bob was filming all of this with the cameras in his mind.

Cooking About Cooking

I will now attempt to explain the high concept micro fantastics that I create when nobody knows, those tasty bits taken in private, when the lights go out, Are there gods watching, I don't know. Olives and lots of em. Take some cheese you know any kind, now were talkin. stuff the mushroom or the olive, with cheese. Now it seems relatively safe to cover beverages, Iced tea is deliciously crisp and light and is dirt cheap, so drink it with a smile, also water is good, but not as good as tea. Milk should be mixed with some sort of flavoring. You are not a baby cow, you are not a lake, You are not. Well, Vodka is great in orange juice, and cranberry juice, or by itself. Alcohol can be expensive, so get some fruit juice and add some yeast, warm place in old milk jug with balloon on top, weeks go by, presto chango. also water should be clean, for drinking.

I don't believe you need me to tell you what to eat, so just eat something, there is so much. Books what a joke, eat something good, be good, be healthy, tell me what you like to eat, really i want to hear from you, i mean it, do you like cereal, me too. do you like to crunch cracker. The smell of spray paint, a spring time onion dip, the rolling sea, the lick of the suns fire tounge, the eatins so goood we ate all day song , we sang the mash potatoe song when we ate all day long, when were sick we arent o.k. but when you die you forget the days, so eat till you cant eat no more, and implore and implore some more. Ice cream in cereal. fave junction, nutrition. excellence.
